

Similar Airline Accident

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — For the second time in two weeks, an Allegheny Airlines propjet crashed in bad weather while trying to land at the Bradford Airport.

Eleven people were killed. Seventeen others, most of them left hanging from their seatbelts when the Convair 580 flipped upside down Monday night, crawled to safety on a snow-swept golf course.

A 10-man investigating team from the National Transportation Safety Board, concerned about the "amazing similarities" of the two accidents, went to work today to find out what happened. A similar team has been investigating the Christmas Eve crash of an Allegheny flight eight miles away that killed 20 of 47 persons aboard.

"There was no panic," said Sandy Cherico of North East, Pa., a passenger. "It all happened too fast. 'The no-smoking' sign had already come on and the stewardess was checking the seat belts."

Suddenly, said John Schacke, 16, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., "it felt like someone was slamming the left side with a hammer. We ran into tree limbs, turned over and slid. I wound up hanging upside down. Someone yelled to go out the back."

Outside the survivors organized and went back for those who couldn't get out. "No one was thinking of them selves," said Chet Messervy, 56, of Downingtown, Pa. "We were just trying to get out everybody we could. The school boys were wonderful. They handled themselves like men. I'm proud of them."

Allegheny Airlines, which has had three fatal plane crashes since it started flying passengers in 1959, said it had no reason to believe there is any link between the two accidents near the 2,100-foot-high Bradford Regional Airport. There are no planes to stop any flights, a spokesman said.

The latest crash was Flight 737, which originated in Washington, stopped in Harrisburg and was bound for Erie and Detroit. The first crash was Flight 736, which goes the other way.

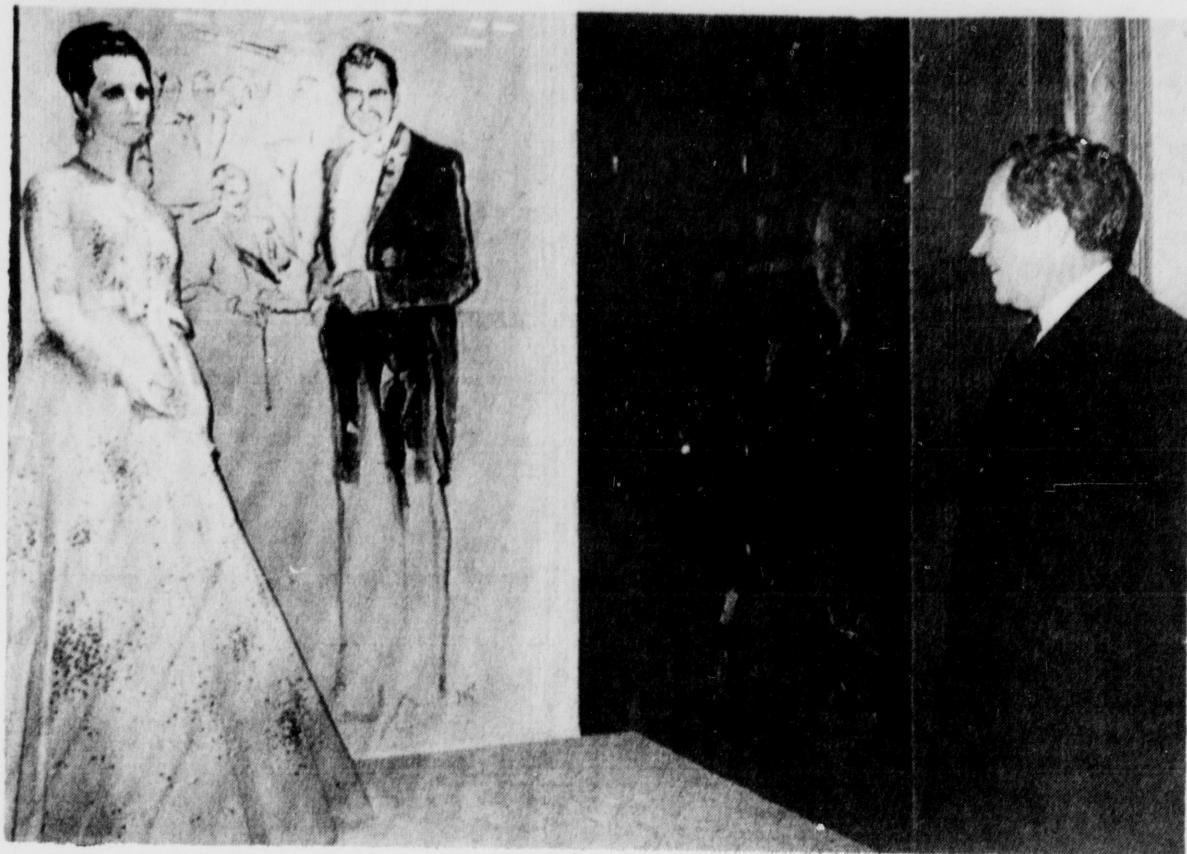

Both were Convair 580s, both were making instrument landings in snow, both turned over. Both had more survivors than dead. Both were coming in after severe winter storms. Neither pilot gave any warnings. Both took place about 8:30 p.m.

Cherico, a World War II pilot, told Allegheny officials he could think of only two explanations: "The flight chart for the airport is off, or there is somebody in the area with a citizens' band radio operating on the same frequency as the airport."

Judy Barillo, wife of the golf pro at the Pine Acres course on the same Allegheny Mountain plateau five miles northwest of the airport, said the plane made a tremendous noise when it went down.

"Then our picture window just lit up." She said there was a small fire in the wreckage when the plane stopped about 300 yards from her home. "It burned for about five minutes, then one man came up and asked if he could call his relatives."

Wreckage was strewn for 75 feet. One wing was ripped off but the fuselage was mostly intact.

Freeman Says Controls Still Needed on Farms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said today farmers are "sitting on a powder keg" of potential over-production and present federal control programs should be continued in the immediate future.

Freeman, who steps down Jan. 20 after eight years as secretary, also said the scope of the department has expanded so much that the name should be changed. He suggested it be called the Department of Food, Agriculture and Rural Development.

In his final yearly report to the President, Freeman said farmers and rural people have reached a new plateau "from which they can begin to share more fully" in the nation's economic growth.

"But most of the conditions which made the voluntary farm programs necessary in the first place are still with us," Freeman reported. "American farmers still have the capacity to produce more than the market can absorb at a fair price to them."

Freeman noted that agricultural output currently is about 50 per cent more than it was 25 years ago and requires less than half the labor it did. He said this is a "great economic bulwark" for the country "but it also keeps the farmer and rancher sitting on a powder keg."

He said that "for the foreseeable future" there are two basic choices: continuation and improvement of the existing voluntary control programs, or a return to mandatory programs which farmers already have rejected.

"The real choice, then, lies with the pattern established these past eight years," Freeman said, adding that the programs he has administered since 1961 "deserve to be preserved and strengthened."

Freeman said the focus of the Agriculture Department has been broadened to include "all of rural America, from field to Main Street" and that though the agency has its roots on the farm it touches everyone.

Rundown Buildings Concern of Council

The city's efforts to rid itself of its eyesores and fire hazards is getting into full swing, with a public hearing set for 7:30 p.m., Feb. 11, at City Hall to discuss the disposition of buildings located at 316 and 316½ East St. Louis, 530 North Washington and 2601 South Collins.

Councilman Leo Letourneau of the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee made the motion at the City Council meeting Monday night so condemnation proceedings against these buildings may get under way. Letourneau also reported to the council that the owner of a building at 411 East 27th gave permission to the city to demolish that building.

Four bids were received by the city for the lighting equipment to be installed in the new Town & Country Shoes plant. They were: K & W Electric Co., $1,785; Sparks Electric Co., $1,524.15; Queen City Electric Co., $1,499.64; Sedalia Steel and Wire Co., $1,628.84. The bids were turned over to the Industrial Development Committee.

The council amended the pay schedule to show Gary Johnson, senior draftsman, as being employed June 1, 1968, at a salary of $525 per month. His salary now is $546 per month, after his first six months of employment. Johnson's employment at the beginning salary had been approved by the council at the time, but was never reflected in the pay schedule.

Last Dec. 16, bids on improvements at the Water Department's pump station and a new main leading into the city were opened and the low bid approved for a total of $965,397.70. This was $73,000 more than the engineer's estimate on the project. The Department of Housing and Urban Development will furnish, in matching funds for parts of the project, a total of $393,800, providing the city guarantees the additional $73,000, it was brought out at the meeting.

Assessing Personal Property

Assessment of Pettis County personal property tax for this year has started, and Assessor Jerry Trotter has asked all residents to cooperate with his deputies in making the assessment.

Six deputies are working in the city of Sedalia, and 13 others are making the assessments in the county. The deputies are paid by the day, and not for each individual assessment, as many believe, Trotter said.

No set schedule for making the necessary visit to each residence has been made, but a deputy will visit each residence once. If the occupant is not at home, the deputy will leave the assessment.

The forms have all of the necessary instructions and Trotter has asked residents finding the form to fill it out and forward it to the assessor's office as soon as possible.

The assessor said he hopes to have the job completed by mid-March.

Garage Sale Nets Customer A High Profit

NILES, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Alan Martindale of Niles Township went to a garage sale in August and bought an oriental vase for 50 cents. The woman who had the sale then tried to buy it back the next day for $75, but Mrs. Martindale refused to sell it.

This week, a West Coast art dealer offered her $63,000 for it on the belief it's a 15th Century Ming dynasty vase. She said the Chicago Art Institute wrote, saying it is interested in examining the vase.

The vase is stored in a bank vault as Mrs. Martindale waits to see what the vase actually is. She has sent colored photos of it to art institutes in Chicago and New York and so far has not accepted any financial offers for it.

Ky Denies Favoring Split Peace Talks

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky denied today that he is the author of a plan to split the Vietnam peace talks into three sections, a plan which North Vietnam and the Viet Cong are certain to reject. But Ky did not deny that the plan was under consideration by the Saigon government.

Through a spokesman, Ky said that all suggestions made by him or others at the Paris talks had been approved in advance by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"The vice president strongly denies foreign reports saying he is the author of a peace project or scheme," said the spokesman.

Reports from Paris said the new plan was being discussed in Saigon by Thieu and South Vietnam's national security council. These reports said the plan provides:

1. The United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam would discuss military questions in Paris.

2. Representatives of Saigon and Hanoi would meet, perhaps on a neutral ship off the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, to discuss relations between the two Vietnams. The negotiations could include talks on such internal affairs as communications, trade and civilian traffic.

3. Representatives of the Saigon government and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front would meet in South Vietnam, perhaps in Saigon's presidential palace, to discuss South Vietnamese political and security problems.

An official source close to the Saigon delegation in Paris said the United States has been fully informed of the proposals and that "President Johnson himself favors them." The Saigon delegation, however, officially disclaims responsibility for the plan.

The Ky format undoubtedly would be unacceptable to Hanoi and the NLF because it squeezes the NLF out of the Paris negotiations, denies it international recognition, and reinforces the Saigon contention that the Viet Cong and the NLF are controlled by North Vietnam.

The status of the NLF, which insists it is the only true representative of the South Vietnamese people, has been the chief bar to the opening of expanded peace talks.

North Vietnam's rejection reinforced the general opinion in Paris that there will be no progress toward the conference table until after President-elect Nixon is inaugurated and Henry Cabot Lodge replaces W. Averell Harriman as the chief U.S. negotiator on Jan. 20.

Jail Bonds Are Sold To a Bank

Bids on bonds for the new $150,000 Pettis County jail were opened in the County Court Tuesday morning, and the low bidder for the entire issue was Traders National Bank of Kansas City. There was one other bid on the bonds.

Traders bid was for a 4.5 percent interest rate.

Present at the bid opening were Presiding Judge Henry Lamm, Eastern Judge E. L. Birdsong, Western Judge Zeb Thomas, County Treasurer Virgil Houchens and Norman Lewis, vice president of Perry, Adams & Lewis, Inc., Kansas City investment brokers.

Lewis said his firm would have the bonds printed and ready for the necessary signatures in about 10 days.

Lamm said the court had decided to issue the bonds now, even though the site for the new jail has not been purchased, in order to have the money ready when it is needed. In the meantime, the court plans to invest the money in short-term treasury bills. The investment in these securities will add a considerable amount to the fund.

The value of treasury bills fluctuates according to the market, but in the past month has remained steady at more than 6 percent. If the price holds up, the county could make approximately 1.5 percent profit on the investment, over roughly a 6-month period.

The court has given the owner of the property just across Lamine from the courthouse, where the Yellow Cab Co. is located, until Wednesday to reply to a county offer for the property. If the owner, Mrs. Beulah Salisbury, 809 West Broadway, gives a negative answer, condemnation proceedings could be initiated to obtain the property for public use.

Crops Value Up in 1968 In Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Crops produced in Missouri during 1968 were valued at $744 million—an increase of some $95 million from the previous year.

Federal and state agricultural experts estimated the state's corn yield last year as being worth nearly $258 million, an increase of more than $35 million from 1967.

Last year's Missouri soybean crop was valued at more than $241 million, a gain of over $55 million from the year before.

Authorities figured the 1968 cotton crop was worth nearly $27 million, a gain of $18 million from the poor yield the previous year.

Missouri's 1968 hay crop was valued at almost $120 million, some $4 million more than the year before.

Half of Viet Cong Unit Destroyed in U.S. Sweep

SAIGON (AP) — Battling under the light of flares, a task force of 600 American infantrymen tried to encircle an outnumbered Viet Cong company in the marshy Mekong Delta Monday night.

The Viet Cong force was believed to number 100 or more, and the Americans reported killing 48 of them. But the rest slipped away sometime before dawn today.

U.S. casualties were eight killed and 11 wounded.

Rarely in recent months have Viet Cong troops been brought to battle in such force in the delta. Helicopter-borne infantrymen of the U.S. 9th Division fanned out in the area today, trying to track down the survivors.

A U.S. spokesman said the enemy band was evidently a main force Viet Cong company, which normally numbers about 110 to 130 men. Most of the enemy forces in the area have recently been operating in squads or platoons. These groups usually gather only for planned operations, and it was speculated that this force may have been assembled to break the lull in the delta or was on the march to reinforce enemy units closer to Saigon.

The fight erupted when a company of the 9th Division's 1st Brigade ran into a concealed bunker complex in a marshy thicket of nipa palms on the north bank of the Mekong River about 69 miles southwest of Saigon.

The Viet Cong opened up from the concealed log bunkers, and the initial fire cut heavily into the Americans.

Helicopter gunships came speeding in to blast the Viet Cong with rockets, and more infantrymen were ordered up. As the Americans tried to close a cordon around the Viet Cong, circling flareships spewed Gatling gun fire into the enemy position.

Reports from the battlefield indicated the battered Viet Cong slipped out of their bunkers and made it to the banks of the Mekong a few hundred yards away.

Otherwise the day's military reports told of isolated, small-scale actions and more large caches of enemy arms and supplies turned up by the constantly patrolling allied forces.

The U.S. Command said about 70 tons of munitions and weapons and 112 tons of rice have been found in nine days of sweep operations throughout the country. Much of it was seized in the 3rd Corps area that surrounds Saigon.

"The loss of this materiel and food," said the U.S. Command, "has undoubtedly had a significant impact on the enemy's ability to initiate and—or sustain combat in certain areas of the country."

In Saigon, police arrested a suspect in the assassination of Education Minister Le Minh Tri, informed sources said. Tri and his chauffeur were killed by a bomb thrown into their car Monday.

The suspect, wearing a military uniform, had in his possession the license number of the minister's car and a partial description of Tri's daily routine, the sources said. They added it was not known if the man arrested had Viet Cong ties.

Combat police were assigned to guard Cabinet ministers following the assassination and to give them armed escorts when they go out.

Witnesses said the bomb that killed Tri was thrown by two youths who escaped on a motorcycle. The government called it "an act of terrorism by the Communists."

School Districts Plan Given State Board Nod

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The state board of education today reported conditional endorsement of the reorganization plan announced last Nov. 15 by the Missouri School District Reorganization Commission.

It said if the Legislature should adopt the commission's proposal it would go along. If the Legislature declined, the board said, then it suggested granting more power to the board so some of the best portions of the reorganization plan could be carried forward.

In its statement the board said: "The state board does believe that reorganization of the school districts in Missouri is a priority need and that action is required to insure that every child has access to an acceptable level of education."

"Such action should include the granting of authority to the state board to reorganize these districts which do not meet established criteria and which do not act locally."

The commission plan would reduce the number of local school districts from 786 to 132 and would place them in 20 big regional school districts.

The 20 districts would levy the major school taxes and allocate the money back to the local units. That way each unit, even in a poverty pocket, would have the same level of financing as a unit in a wealthy area.

Local units, however, could levy up to 10 per cent of the regional tax rate for special purposes.

Rep. James L. Spainhower, D-Marshall, chairman of the commission, called it an effort "to provide equal access to educational opportunity for all Missouri children."

The plan already has met with individual opposition from some legislators who say they'll never vote anything that would lump their well-programmed and financed school districts with others that are just limping to get along.

Some said the same thing might be accomplished by levying the school tax on a statewide basis and allocating the money back to local districts.

The state board said if the Legislature rejects the commission's master plan then these changes should be made:

1. Let the State Board draw up its own master reorganization plan after the Legislature provides adequate personnel and funds for the job.

2. Permit the board to eliminate at once all local school districts that do not have high schools, merging them with districts that are reorganized.

3. Bar the local reorganization of any school districts unless the proposal fits the master plan set up by the State Board.

4. Let the State Tax Commission have the power to equalize assessed valuations on the basis of actual value.

5. Increase state aid to public schools so it matches local funds.

The board said it would cooperate with the Legislature on any reorganization plan approved.

Lack Scientific Evidence That UFO's 'Spaceships'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret report on an Air Force-financed investigation of flying saucers will say there is no scientific evidence to indicate that these unidentified flying objects are spaceships from another world.

Informed sources told The Associated Press that this will be the primary thrust of the closely-guarded report on a two-year study by a team of nongovernment scientists.

The sources said the report will not claim that the study produced proof that UFO's are not manned surveillance craft from outer space. "You can't prove a negative," the sources said.

Neither, they said, will it question the possibility that intelligent life exists beyond the earth. Instead, it will emphasize that the investigation uncovered no scientific evidence to support contentions by various individuals and private organizations that flying saucers are visitors from a distant planet.

The study, financed by a $500,000 grant from the Air Force, was made by a team of scientists under Dr. Edward U. Condon of the University of Colorado.

Tight security has been imposed on the project from the start, and authorities are still working hard to guard against leaks.

The 1,000-page report has been turned over, at the Air Force's request, to a special appraisal committee of the National Academy of Sciences, which refuses to divulge any information, even the names of committee members.

Findings of the academy committee are to be attached to the report for simultaneous release by the Air Force, now tentatively scheduled for Friday.

Dr. Condon, 65, a physicist and a former chief of the U.S. National Bureau of Standards, has repeatedly refused to talk about the findings of the project.

Condon's project staff included a dozen astronomers, physicists and psychologists. He also enlisted the aid of outside consultants, and contracted with private agencies for some research.

The Air Force commissioned Condon's study in the face of persistent criticism of its own UFO investigations, begun 20 years ago and still continuing.

Critics of the Air Force claim its studies are biased against the possibility that UFO's are manned surveillance craft from outer space, and accuse it of withholding information that might prove the contention. The Air Force has vigorously denied both accusations.

The upcoming report appears certain to prompt renewed controversy.

Last May, the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena—a private group that gathers information on flying saucers—charged that the Condon study lacked impartiality. The organization said it had broken relations with the Condon group after what it called 17 months of cooperation.

The House Space and Astronautics Committee held a "seminar" on UFO's last July. Ground rules prohibited specific discussion of the Condon project.

Who Carries Baby— Husband or Wife?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been having the same tiresome argument for four years. It's time it was settled. Will you do it, please?

When a couple is out in public, who is supposed to carry the baby? My husband says a husband is supposed to carry packages and suitcases, but the woman is supposed to carry the kids.

Our little boy is almost four and the new baby is seven weeks old. It's very hard for me to hold the boy's hand when I have to carry the little girl. If my husband would help me out by carrying the baby, it would make life a lot easier. Will you please say something? — TIREDD

Dear Tired: Nature has decreed that the woman is stuck for the first nine months. After that, her husband should be happy to carry the child.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 20-year-old boy who would like to respond to "Woodshed Father," the man who believes that most kids today need a crack in the mouth. He also thinks all psychiatrists are nuts, and that you, Ann Landers, are a meddling old hag.

Granted, my father never took any sass from his children, but he never took any love, respect, or affection from us, either. And we had a lot to give.

I tried hard to be the kind of boy a father could be proud of, but I learned quite young that he wasn't interested in being a father. He never once called me "Son" or even by my name. It was always "Hey, you." I have no recollection that my father ever smiled at me, or held me on his lap. I can't recall that he ever touched me, except to crack me in the mouth. And for some mysterious reason those cracks in the mouth were always a surprise to me. I never knew when one was coming.

Perhaps I shouldn't be too hard on my father. He taught me one thing, and for this I am grateful. I learned from him how NOT to raise children.

Please keep writing your column, Ann. Tell people what they ought to hear. Tell parents that kids need discipline and that they want it, but that they also need love and tenderness from both father and mother. Tell them there is a point at which strictness and inflexibility should end. And if it doesn't end there, love will end there. — INDIANAPOLIS WOODSHED SON

Dear Son: You sound like the kind of son any father would be proud of, and I'll bet your father was proud of you but he was unable to let you know. Poor man. How I pity him! He missed it all.

Confidential to It Had To Be Moonglow: Not necessarily. It could have been something you ate. Or drank. Write again in about ten days — when you are rested and sober.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Whales Suffering From the Bluf Bug

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Shamu, the star killer whale at Sea World Park, moans all day with the flu. Her companions, Ilroy and Ramu are sick, too.

Whale doctors at the aquatic park in San Diego's Mission Bay say the three whales also display other flu symptoms such as sniffles, poor appetite, acute weakness and sluggishness.

Dr. David Kenney, the park veterinarian, placed the three whales on medication in an effort to keep them from getting pneumonia. Ramu, for example, gets 375 pills stuffed in mackerel every six hours.

The whales also are on a reduced schedule designed to give them plenty of rest.

New Interior Secretary Confident of Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel, President-elect Nixon's choice for secretary of interior, says he is sure a Senate hearing on his nomination will show he is in basic agreement with conservationists on protecting natural resources.

Hickel's brief statement Sunday was his first public response to critics who have charged that his statements have indicated he would put business interests ahead of public need in the area of conservation.

One of the things cited by Hickel's critics is his statement at a news conference opposing "conservation for conservation's sake."

Hickel said in his statement that "I am confident that when Congress and the public have an opportunity to know my record and philosophy as a public and private person, they will find we are in basic agreement on principles for conservation and utilization of this country's great natural resources."

Senate majority Leader Mike Mansfield also said Sunday Hickel can expect to be treated "with fairness and discrimination" when questioned by the Senate Interior Committee at the Jan. 15 hearing on his new job.

Mansfield appeared on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation." He said Hickel will be examined closely but he expects eventual approval of the appointment.

In Seattle, Wash., Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, said Sunday Hickel will face stiff questioning at the hearing.

Escalation As Only Recourse

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee says that if the Vietnam peace talks in Paris fail, it sees "no alternative to an all-out military effort to bring the war to a speedy conclusion."

The U.S. bombing halt has allowed North Vietnam to stockpile massive supplies, the Armed Services subcommittee concluded in a report released Sunday, and if the talks fail "will have provided the North with a new lease on life and the conflict will certainly be prolonged."

It said: "The massive and unimpeded movement of supplies to the northern borders of South Vietnam and the Cambodian sanctuary farther south will have solved major logistic problems for Hanoi."

If the peace talks collapse, the subcommittee said, it sees "no alternative to an all-out military effort to bring the war to a speedy conclusion, hopefully to be followed by a resolution of political differences between North and South Vietnam."

The report was the last in a series reviewing U.S. military commitments abroad.

It covered chiefly U.S. pacts with Latin America and Australia-New Zealand, but touched on the Vietnam supply situation as a result of the bombing pause.

The subcommittee found that U.S. military commitments are "for the most part, so general in nature that an individual interpretation and determination must be made as each contingency arises."

It also said: "The drawdown on U.S. military assets around the world to supply our Vietnam requirements appears to be ending and the flow of materiel has been reversed by the present surpluses in Southeast Asia."

Plays Name Game

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Mayor Reg Williams says he's just learned from his birthplace in Grand Forks County, N.D., that his birth certificate lists him as Wallace Earle Williams. His baptismal record gives his name as Charles Reginald Williams, but he's been called Reginald Wallace Williams since childhood, the mayor said. He plans legal steps to keep the latter name.

Publisher As Envoy To London

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon is expected to name millionaire publisher Walter Annenberg to be ambassador to Britain, one of the major diplomatic assignments.

Nixon aides, in keeping with their usual practice, declined to comment publicly on the matter. However one said he did not anticipate announcement of any ambassadorial nominations until after Nixon is inaugurated Jan. 20.

There was no comment, either, on speculation that former Sen. Kenneth Keating, a New York Republican who is now a state judge, might be nominated as ambassador to Israel.

Annenberg is owner and publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer and a number of other publications.

David K. E. Bruce has been ambassador to Britain for nearly eight years—since the start of the Kennedy administration. Now 70, Bruce is considered the dean of American diplomats.

The London post usually is given to men of great wealth, because the expense of maintaining the embassy's social standards far exceed available federal funds.

Nixon had no announced-in-advance appointments for today but planned to spend most of his time in his office at the Hotel Pierre.

In brisk weather Monday evening, Nixon walked after dark along Fifth Avenue to his apartment, unrecognized by most of the hundreds of passersby. He paused to inspect the display windows of one department store that featured full length paintings of Nixon and other prominent Republicans, each flanked by a suggested inaugural-ball gown.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported Monday that Nixon is considering former Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, a Missouri Republican, as chief U.S. trade negotiator, a job that carries ambassadorial rank. Curtis was one of the congressional negotiators during Kennedy-round tariff talks in Geneva.

Fund For Victim Now Past $32,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A fund for the widow and children of Raymond J. Sansoucie, an automobile worker killed while chasing a purse snatcher, has passed the $32,000 mark.

The St. Louis Grand Jury Association reported Monday individual contributions ranged from two quarters from a 10-year-old to several $500 donations.

Sansoucie, 30, pursued a youthful purse snatcher he saw attack an elderly widow New Year's Eve, and he was shot fatally. He and his wife Ruth, 24, had four children with another one on the way.

Air Force Space Role Seen Under Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon defense team will have a civilian Air Force boss whose background suggests new emphasis on military space work.

He is Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., a former top official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was presented Monday along with two other men tabbed by Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird as civilian secretaries of the Army and Navy.

Stanley R. Resor was a surprise reappointment to the Army job. Former Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, a one-time Marine, was picked to replace Paul R. Ignatius as secretary of the Navy.

Seamans, who succeeds Harold Brown, made it clear from the outset he thinks space activity should be a major part of the Air Force.

"There are clearly requirements for a strong space program," the graying, 50-year-old Seamans told newsmen. "My prime objective," he said, "will be to develop equipment for national defense and my emphasis will be on whatever kind of equipment will be most suitable for the mission at hand."

He avoided getting into specifics but did mention that a major facet of the Air Force space program is the Manned Orbiting Laboratory project.

Originally the MOL program was to have launched a team of astronauts into orbit for 30 days this year. But money cuts and engineering problems have pushed the schedule for the first manned launch to 1971.

The Air Force has spent billions of dollars on space-related projects in recent years. Although the attitude during the long tenure of former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara appeared to be that the United States should move cautiously toward military use of outer space.

Air Force officers expect Seamans will bring to the Pentagon a range of scientific knowledge that will equip him to press the Air Force case for an acceleration of space projects.

Seamans was deputy administrator of NASA from December 1965 until January 1968 when he returned to a professorship at MIT, located at Cambridge, Mass.

Some portray Seamans during the NASA assignment as the technician, the working man who handled details on the Gemini and Apollo orbital shots while James Webb served as NASA's administrator was the front man.

Education Shake-up As Need

By JAMES BOW
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare-designate, says American classrooms need a shaking up to improve teaching and reduce the number of years a person must spend in school.

Use of computers, year-around schooling, staggered vacations and more challenging classes are seen by Finch as possibilities in what he regards as "probably the area of real concern" in education—elementary and secondary schools.

"Many of our elementary schools are teaching now the way they did 20 years ago," Finch said in an interview before leaving Monday night for Washington.

Finch, California's Republican lieutenant governor for the past two years, said that as "a general proposition, we've probably concentrated too much on welfare" as opposed to helping young persons achieve productive lives.

"We know that the problems are in higher education," Finch explained. "Probably the areas of real concern are in the public schools. We've got to begin to shake up elementary and secondary education."

One problem, Finch said, is that elementary schools don't take television into account although "a child has perhaps 2,000 or 3,000 hours before a TV set" before reaching school.

Another problem, he said, is that for a young man with military obligations, education is "so strung out that most stay out of the real world until their mid-20s."

Finch, 43, is Nixon's youngest choice for the Cabinet. During the past two years, he served as an ex-officio University of California regent and California State College System trustee.

Fourth Arrest On a Bogus Bills Count

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A fourth man indicted on counterfeiting charges has been arrested by authorities in Prairie Village, Kan.

Police reported the arrest last night of 50-year-old Rudy Chuning, who was sought last year of over $200,000 in phony $10 and $20 bills and arrest of his 49-year-old brother, Eugene Victor Chuning, at a Kansas City motel. The older Chuning was held in Kansas City, Kan., for federal agents and ultimate return to Kansas City.

The younger Chuning was given a seven year prison sentence by Federal Judge Richard Duncan last Friday after he had pleaded guilty to the counterfeiting charges.

Two others indicted on the counterfeit charges also have pleaded guilty. They were 37-year-old Loyd Warden, president of Warden Printing service in Kansas City, and 49-year-old Mrs. Maxman Meier, of Kansas City.

Top Prices Paid For Cow Milkers

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — A good cow milker in San Diego County is hard to find, now that dairies are offering rent-free homes, up to $700 a month and even a free gallon of milk a day.

Since it takes years to train a top milker, the San Diego County Dairy Herd Improvement Association is worried. "Just as the cow becomes accustomed to one milker, he leaves for another dairy," a spokesman said.

Milkers are in great demand. So the dairies are setting up a school, three nights a week at Escondido high school. So far 17 men have signed up.

Pepsi Firm Continuing Operations

Despite the loss of its plant in a costly blaze early Sunday evening, the Pepsi-Cola firm is still in operation in Sedalia.

W.C. Ream, plant manager, said Tuesday the firm is back in business, with offices in the Sho-Me-Kort Motel, next to the burned-out plant on South Limit.

Ream said customers will continue to be served from Sedalia, with the help of other Pepsi plants throughout the state. The phone number now is the same as always. Warehousing is being done at the former Welch Welding Co. building on South Highway 65.

Pepsi products are being furnished the Sedalia operation from Columbia, Brookfield, St. Louis, New Haven and Springfield. The St. Louis plant has furnished the Sedalia operation with five trucks, on a temporary basis, to replace those lost in the fire Sunday night.

Ream indicated the Sedalia plant will be rebuilt in the Sedalia area, but not on the burned-out location.

Prime Rate Of Interest At Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks across the country raised the prime interest rate for business loans to a new all-time high of 7 per cent, from 6 3/4 per cent, today.

First National City Bank of New York, one of the nation's largest, was the first to announce the increase and other major banks quickly followed, including the nation's largest, Bank of America of San Francisco.

The prime rate is the interest commercial banks charge their biggest and most creditworthy customers such as large corporations. Other interest rates, such as consumer loan rates, are scaled up from the prime rate.

It was the second time in less than a month that the major banks raised the prime or minimum rate for business loans. First National City Bank also led the boost in the prime rate to a record 6 3/4 per cent from 6 1/2 per cent on Dec. 18.

The December increase followed action by the Federal Reserve Board boosting the discount rate, the interest charged commercial banks for funds borrowed from the Federal Reserve, to 5 1/2 from 5 1/4 per cent.

Bankers attributed the prime rate increase to increases in other money-market rates, plus strong seasonal demand for business loans.

The Federal Reserve Board had taken no action on the discount rate this time, and sources in Washington said the prime rate increase came as a surprise to the board.

Reaction from board members was not immediately available.

Most banks lowered the prime rate to 6 1/4 per cent from 6 1/2 per cent last September in anticipation of a slowdown in the economy and easier credit as a result of the income tax surcharge. The economy failed to cool off, however, and rates went back to 6 1/2 per cent on Dec. 2.

House Votes Presidential Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to raise Richard M. Nixon's presidential salary to $200,000 a year, double the pay President Johnson received.

If approved by the Senate and signed by President Johnson, the raise would be only the fourth since George Washington took the job for $25,000 and the first since 1949 when Harry S. Truman's salary was increased from $75,000 to $100,000 yearly.

The new salary would be supplemented by a $50,000 annual expense allowance, which is taxable, and a $40,000 yearly travel allowance, which is not.

With only one strong dissent, from a Republican, the House members rushed the bill through by voice vote Monday. To be effective it must become law before Nixon is sworn in at noon Jan. 20, since the Constitution forbids changing a president's salary during his term.

The presidential increase was recommended by a special commission headed by Frederick R. Kappel, former chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. It also suggested sweeping increases in salaries paid other federal officials—including congressmen—but there is no constitutional deadline on those.

President Johnson is expected to make his recommendations, based on the Kappel Report when he submits his budget to Congress later this month.

The only vocal opposition came from Republican Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa, who said he feared the bill would set the stage for fat increases for members of Congress and others.

The recommendations for other raises will be handled differently.

The Senate is expected to take up the presidential pay-raise bill next week, in time for Johnson to sign it before Inauguration Day.

Refinery Walkouts Continue

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The nationwide strike against major oil refineries entered its fourth day today, but the president of the striking Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union said there was little to indicate an imminent settlement.

President A.F. Gropiron said "the best offer any company has made amounts to about a third as much as we asked."

The union is asking 72 cents an hour general wage increase in 23-month contracts. The average refinery worker now gets $3.80 an hour.

Involved are 435 contracts which must be separately negotiated.

Trip To Girls State Described To Rotary

Miss Kathy Binderup, Smith-Cotton High School senior, gave an interesting report on her activities at Missouri Girl's State last June to members of the Sedalia Rotary Club on Monday noon at Hotel Bothwell. Her attendance was sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Kathy was a member of the Nationalist Party at Girl's State and was a candidate for governor of her party. She was defeated in her bid for the governorship, but was elected a mayor. The 642 girls were introduced to the two party system of government—the other party was the Federalists—and they learned something of the operation of government and politics and the fundamentals of getting along with one another. Girl's State was held at Stephens College at Columbia, one of the few campuses with dormitory facilities that can accommodate up to 650 girls.

The speaker was introduced by Paul Hunnell, January program chairman. The invocation was given by Dr. J. Rodewald. Jim Edwards led in group singing with Mrs. Lillian Maynard as accompanist.

The club voted to give unanimous support to the candidacy of Harry Finks, Clinton banker and past district governor of Rotary, for the Board of Directors of Rotary International from Zone 3.

Dr. Stanley Fisher, club president, read a greetings card from the Rome, Italy, Rotary Club which was visited by Dr. Gordon Stauffacher on his recent European tour.

Guests for the meeting were Skip Torquist and Bill Woolery, from Smith-Cotton High School. John "Bud" Brown made the introductions.

MKT Request On a Closing Under Study

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A spokesman for the Missouri Public Service Commission said today it would be several weeks before a decision is reached on the request of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad to close its agency station at Moberly, Mo.

Katy witnesses testified at a hearing Jan. 3 the station has been losing money regularly since 1966.

In that year, Ralph Douglas of Dennison, Tex., an auditor for the road, said the Moberly station loss was $7,746. Douglas said the loss in 1967 rose to $8,130 and for the first nine months in 1968 came to $5,550.

He said the Moberly station provides freight service primarily for two Moberly shippers, F. H. Stamper Milling Co. and Forney Furniture Co. He said the business provided for Katy in Moberly now averages less than one-half of one shipment a day.

Military Appeal Is Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals Monday denied without comment Army Capt. Howard B. Levy's appeal of his conviction for refusing to train Vietnam-bound soldiers.

Levy, 31, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was dishonorably discharged, sentenced to three years in federal prison and ordered to forfeit all pay after his conviction at Ft. Jackson, S.C., June 3, 1967.

Levy, a dermatologist, opposes the United States involvement in the war in Vietnam. The general court martial board found Levy guilty of disobeying orders to train troops in the treatment of skin disease.

In Atlanta, Charles Morgan of the American Civil Liberties Union, said, "Dr. Levy's military remedies have been exhausted. He is now entitled to go into the civilian courts of the United States to test the constitutionality of his confinement and the conviction."

G.M. Reports Good Results With 'Jobless'

DETROIT (AP) — More than 21,700 persons previously considered hard-core unemployed have been hired by General Motors Corp. plants across the nation in the past eight months and James Roche, the company chairman, says job retention by that group was nearly identical with other GM employees.

Roche said in a statement that the giant automaker told the National Alliance of Businessmen last April it would hire 12,759 unemployed by this coming June 30.

After eight months, said Roche, "it now seems certain that the original projection will be more than doubled before that date."

He said the hard-core unemployed group represented about 20 per cent of all new employees at GM in the period.

The firm reported 54 per cent of the special group were non-whites.

The job retention rate of that group was 67.6 per cent, compared with 67.9 per cent for other employees hired during the period, Roche said.

"Incentives to contribute their own best efforts," are the primary challenge to hiring such persons, Roche said. He listed as among those needed incentives: employment opportunity, education and training, proper housing and guidance.

Income Tax Choices Baffling

Editor's note: It is time to think about the income tax again. This is Chapter Two of a series reviewing the regulations, with emphasis on taking advantage of all exclusions and deductions legally due you.

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

You must file a 1968 income tax return if you are under 65 and had at least $600 in gross taxable income last year.

If you were 65 or older by Jan. 1, 1969, you must file a return if gross taxable income for last year was $1,200 or more.

Three types of returns are available. The use of one is restricted by income limitations. The choice of either of the other two is dictated by your election to itemize your deductions, or to settle for an alternative method.

The three types are:
• 1040-A, the "quickie" punched-card type form which may be used if income was less than $10,000 and consisted solely of wages shown on W-2 slips with a total of not more than $200 in income from other wages, dividends and interest. You cannot use this form if you had any capital gains or losses, rental, royalty, pension income, or self-employment income.

If you use this form you get no opportunity to itemize your deductions and you lose certain benefits available only on a Form 1040, such as business expenses, sick pay and moving expenses, or a retirement income credit.

The form is ideal, however, for students whose total income for 1968 was less than $900; unmarried persons with a minimum of allowable deductions; young married couples who are not homeowners and who have no extraordinary medical, contributions or educational deductions; anyone (including a couple filing a joint return) whose total income is less than $10,000 and whose itemized deductions would not exceed 10 per cent of their income.

If your total income is less than $5,000 and you use this form you may either determine the tax yourself by using the automatic tax tables or you may have IRS do it for you. If total income is $5,000 or more, you must compute the tax yourself.

• Form 1040 with itemized deductions. This presents the greater opportunity for tax saving and will be the type upon which this series and the "Cut Your Own Taxes" book for 1969 concentrates its greatest attention.

• Form 1040 with these two options:

1. Instead of itemizing deductions claim instead 10 per cent total adjusted gross income, or $1,000, whichever is lesser.

2. Instead of itemizing deductions take the minimum standard deduction which permits a deduction amounting to $100 for each exemption claimed on the return plus an additional $200. (The final addition is only $100 for married persons filing separate returns.)

The maximum permitted under either alternative for married persons filing separately is $500.

NEXT: Joint or separate returns.

Memories Are Riches Beyond Highest Price

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you like to be able to remember everything that ever happened to you?

Wives, elephants and male novelists are popularly supposed to have this type of total recall. They never forget because they simply can't forget. Some are even haunted for years by the license numbers of cars that pass them in the street.

Such a memory, thronged by unimportant trifles, could be a confounded nuisance. But a selective memory that can recall across the years the cheerful and wry moments of the past that make us what we are is a blessing beyond price.

You've got a pretty varied stock of memories yourself if you can look back and remember when—

You thrilled to a stage presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" featuring Eliza's dash across the ice pursued by bloodhounds.

Half the college football players in America sought summer work as icemen because it was on such a job that famed Red Grange had kept in shape during the vacation months.

You could tell vaudeville hoovers by their checked suits.

No real lady would drink in public but a considerable number got high in the privacy of their boudoirs on blood tonics heavily spiked with alcohol.

Anyone who wore bifocal glasses was considered elderly.

A boy became a man the day his father presented him with a gold pocket watch. It was a kind of solemn rite during which mother had to wipe away tremulous tears and every member of the family remembered thereafter.

If you told a banker you wanted to borrow money to go on a vacation, he would have thought you had taken leave of your senses.

Most of the skiing in America was done by small boys on barrel staves.

No smell on earth was more heavenly than the smell of home-made bread being baked by mother in an old iron kitchen stove fueled by wood.

If you weren't seen in church on Sunday, everyone in the neighborhood felt sorry for you because they were sure you must be home ill.

You could tell the wealth or poverty of a family by the amount of clothing that flapped on the backyard clothesline on Monday.

A boy's standing among his peers depended to a great extent on how shrilly he could whistle and how far he could spit.

Many a farmer's cow got better medical treatment than many a farmer's wife.

You could easily tell the youngest son in a large family. As he generally wore hand-me-downs, his trousers were the ones that had the most patches.

On paydays a smoking man blew himself to a big 10-cent cigar. The rest of the week he had to be content with the six-for-a-quarter brand.

A lot of people who drank buttermilk regularly thought yogurt was some kind of Indian religious leader.

If a fellow couldn't afford to buy something, he did without it until he could.

Those were the days! remember?

Pitch is Made To Cut Thefts

NEW YORK (AP) — "Support your local burglar, ignore these rules." That's the pitch in a new city campaign to fight the rising burglar rate. Among the rules: When you go out, lock doors and windows, let burglars think you're home and leave lights on and no key under the mat; don't tell strangers when you'll be out; keep an eye on your neighbor's property; don't keep extra valuables in the house.

Find Bogus Bills

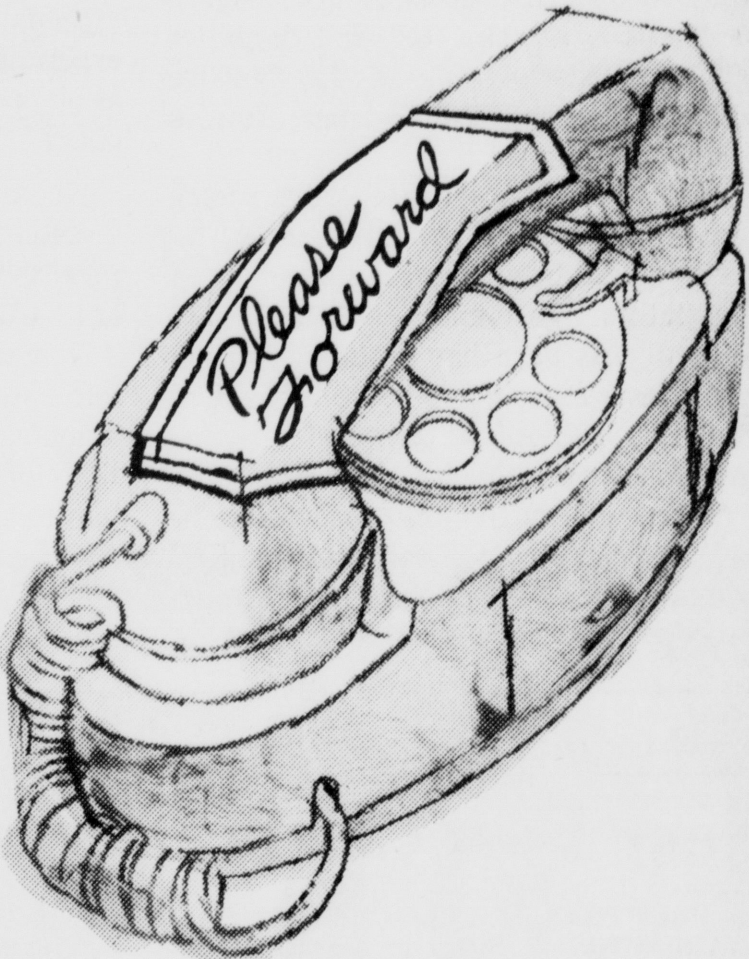

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two city trash collectors found three bags crammed with $10 and $20 bills Monday. The total came to $200,000 but U.S. Secret Service agents described the bills as poor-quality counterfeits.

Election Reform Still Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite defeat of an effort to change the vote of a maverick presidential elector, many congressmen remain hopeful for some electoral reform this year.

"Electoral reform is inevitable in the first session of the 91st Congress," Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Monday after the resolution was defeated 229 to 169 in the House and 58 to 33 in the Senate.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who cosponsored the resolution with Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said the debate did not reassure him of chances for specific change.

But, he told a news conference, "I'm hopeful despite my pessimism."

O'Hara said he thought Monday's debate ultimately would help promote reform.

"This demonstrates the need for reform of the electoral system," said O'Hara, who announced he will shortly introduce a proposed constitutional amendment. He did not say what reforms it will embody, but he is on record in favor of direct presidential elections.

The resolution was prompted by Dr. Lloyd W. Bailey of Rocky Mount, N.C., who voted for George Wallace, even though President-elect Nixon carried the state. Only rarely has an elector voted counter to the popular vote in his state.

Official certification of the electoral vote was held up over two hours while the House and Senate debated the challenge separately.

They reconvened the joint session again in the House chamber after defeating the resolution and heard results announced as Nixon 301, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey 191 and Wallace 46.

Although the resolution failed, many who voted against it spoke in favor of a reform.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., opposed the resolution but said the fact that "such an inequity could occur provides a compelling argument" for electoral reform.

Muskie noted that despite the sentiment for reform, the difficulty lies in getting agreement on a specific reform. He said about 500 proposals have died in Congress.

The man who started it all—Bailey—said he was "delighted Congress had the courage and integrity to uphold the Constitution and their oath of office."

"The most vital point in the whole issue is that if the Electoral College is now abolished we will have a pure democracy and no democracy in history has survived," said the Rocky Mount, N.C., eye specialist.

He said he favored a change in the system to have electors vote as their districts voted.

"This is the way I voted—the way my district did," he said.

Hard-Core Jobless In Postal Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office announced today a special program to give hard-core unemployed a chance at 60 positions in the Boston Post Office.

Recruiting for the trainee program begins this week and is being handled by Action for Boston Community Development, a social improvement organization.

The first group of 15 trainees is scheduled to be hired on Feb. 8. Three additional groups of 15 will be appointed at biweekly intervals, the department said.

Trainees will begin at $2.51 an hour and will be encouraged to take the Civil Service test leading to career positions at higher levels.

Trainees will get on-job instruction and also will be required to take two hours of basic education in daily classes sponsored by the Boston organization.

Drink More Whiskey

GLASGOW (AP) — Scotch whisky consumption throughout the world increased 21 per cent in the past year to a total of 64,383,000 gallons, official figures report. That included 9,480,000 gallons drunk in the British Isles, a rise of 5 per cent domestically over 1967.

Romney School Opinion Causes a Mild Uproar

By THOMAS D. ELIAS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney, who is joining President-elect Nixon's Cabinet, urged Monday night that Michigan private and parochial schools consider abandoning secular education.

"I don't want the parochial schools closed," Romney told a reporter after his televised farewell address. He is resigning later this month to become U.S. secretary of housing and urban development.

Parochial schools should be "evaluated," Romney said. "I think they should look to having class in the afternoons like the Jewish Hebrew schools."

In his speech, Romney said: "I suggest we seriously consider whether it would not be more desirable to leave secular education to the state, with churches—all the churches—concentrating on expanding religious and moral instruction."

"Once we start down the road of state aid to private and parochial schools, it would only be a matter of time before they were getting as much aid as public schools."

In the last legislative session, bills calling for grants of as much as $150 to parents for each child attending private or parochial school remained locked in House and Senate Education committees.

Detroit's Roman Catholic Auxiliary Bishop Thomas J. Gumbleton said, "The fact to be faced is that all schools, both public and private, are caught in a financial squeeze."

"I'm shocked and astonished that a man in high public office would make such a suggestion," said Dr. John F. Choit, president of the Michigan Association of Nonpublic Schools. "It directly contradicts a statement by President-elect Nixon on Oct. 28 in which he said, 'There is a significant role for religious-affiliated schools in the future of our country.'"

Romney also suggested in his speech that schools in metropolitan areas pool funds from property taxes and make more equitable distribution. The richest district in the Detroit area, Romney said, has $55,200 in state equalized property valuation behind each child, but the poorest has only $5,300.

"The state should not pay for much more than 50 per cent of the cost of local education if we are to retain needed local interest and effective local control of education," Romney said.

Many of Australia's 70,000 aborigines still live in the Stone Age.

G-(Whiz) Force in Wiggle

The annals of science are replete with examples of the selfless dedication of individual researchers in the never-ending struggle to push back the frontiers of the unknown.

Add now the name and claim of Salim Ibrahim, who, after 18 months of diligent investigation in an area that theretofore had been a virtual terra incognita to man, has produced a 51-page technical report dealing with "the mechanics of form-persuasive garments."

"Form-persuasive" garments are a relatively new type of feminine body armor made with synthetic elastic fibers, intermediate between conventional high-support foundations and wispy stretch apparel.

Ibrahim, an engineering associate in Du Pont's Textile Fibers Dept., modestly acknowledges that his research represents, as far as is known, "the first definitive laboratory study made of the dynamic forces at work when woman dons a foundation garment."

As anyone might guess, those are some forces. And that's just the trouble — everyone has been guessing up to now. A foundation garment designer, says Ibrahim, has been like a baseball player who fires a mean curve ball but has little exact knowledge of the physical forces that create the phenomenon.

An example of the exact knowledge he has now given us is a mathematical expression for determining the minimum level of the horizontal component of anisotropic (one-way) stretch needed in garments for a given hip size.

Other functional aspects of form-persuasive garments were measured with the aid of three mechanical devices developed for the study — a pressure indicator, a contour meter and an accelerometer.

The latter was used to investigate a phenomenon that observers in the field have always considered one of nature's most amazing. Accelerometer probes were attached to subjects to measure seat vibration during standard fast-walking exercises, or in layman's terms, to measure the rate of "jiggle in the wiggle."

Clad in garments that exerted little or no pressure, subjects developed seat accelerations of from 4.0 to 8.1 g while walking. (The latter figure equals or exceeds the "g" or gravity forces experienced by astronauts at blastoff or by airplane test pilots in high-speed pull-outs.)

High-support garments reduced acceleration to a level of 1.2 to 2.5 g. Form-persuasive garments compared favorably at 1.5 to 3.2 g.

Now that this is known, what worlds are left to conquer? Well, foundation manufacturers are enthusiastic about Ibrahim's discoveries and are encouraging him to extend the same kind of laboratory study to brassieres.

Dedicated scientist that he is, he cannot refuse.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Near East Crisis Eroding to War

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Thanks to the changing of horses in Washington's midstream, another full-scale war could well break in the Near East. If so, the proximity of the American and Russian field makes the area as dangerous as a pack mule strapped with dynamite wandering loose in a mine field.

However, the Johnson administration has only two weeks in which to carry out any policy it starts, while the Nixon administration sits on the sidelines waiting to take over.

Earlier, attempts at cooperation between the two men were polite but not too satisfactory. When the President discussed with Nixon a summit meeting with Premier Kosygin of Russia, the President-elect threw cold water on the idea. Later, to make sure that Johnson did not go ahead with the summit meeting anyway, Nixon sent secret word to the Russians that he was against the meeting. So rather than get off on the wrong foot with the new administration, the Russians politely sidetracked Johnson's feelers.

More recently, the President-elect yielded to the pressure of Max Fisher of Detroit, one of his biggest campaign contributors, and made an exception to his no-foreign-talks rule by seeing Gen. Moshe Dayan, the one-eyed Israeli Minister of Defense. This put Amir Abbass Hoveyda, Prime Minister of Iran, a much bigger country and one extremely friendly to the United States, in an embarrassing position in the Moslem world. He had asked for an interview with Nixon and been turned down.

All this came at a time when the rapidly eroding situation in the Near East is likely to explode into war.

—An "Imposed" Peace—

Most Near East experts, including American, Soviet and Arab, believe that war can only be averted by an "imposed" peace. In other words, the two big powers must force Israel and the Arab belligerents to the conference table.

Significantly, Arab leaders have conveyed private word to the United States and Russia that they would welcome an imposed peace. Their own populations have become too volatile and too bitter, especially after the Israeli raid on the Beirut airport, to enter a peace discussion without being forced into it by the two major powers — Russia which supplies arms to the UAR, and the United States which has just agreed to sell 50 Phantom jets to Israel.

However, the Israelis remember the UN peace terms imposed upon them at Eisenhower's initiative after the 1956 war, and are suspicious of a repeat performance. Eisenhower picked up the trans-Atlantic telephone and in a back-room language told Prime Minister Anthony Eden that he had to get British troops out of Suez. He was so tough that Eden became ill, and resigned shortly thereafter. Ike was almost as tough with the French.

Compared to Eisenhower, President Johnson has been like an indulgent father slapping a wayward child on the wrist. He has used no tough tactics on either the Israelis or the Arabs.

Meanwhile, the situation daily drifts closer to war.

—New Arab Bitterness—

Following the raid on the Beirut airport, the Israelis are forced to reinforce their Lebanon border. Previously this was not a military worry. Lebanon had used its own army to arrest terrorists trying to disrupt Lebanese-Israeli relations. The border between Lebanon and Syria is wild and mountainous, somewhat like the border between South Vietnam and its neighbors. Syrian terrorists constantly sneak across. Previously, however, the Lebanese army did its best to prevent infiltration.

Last week, on the other hand, Soviet-built rocket launchers were being fired by terrorists from Lebanese soil, into nearby Israeli towns. They had never before been permitted to use Lebanese bases.

Things are sure to get worse. The Arab popular front whose terrorists attacked the El Al airplane in Athens, is holding a strategy meeting in Cairo Jan. 17, three days before Nixon takes office, to decide on further retaliation for Israel's raid on Beirut.

—Isolating the USA—

What the United States faces in the Near East is a very significant two-way move by Israel and Soviet diplomats toward isolating the United States from the Arabs. It is:

1. A push by the Russians to keep the United States from resuming diplomatic relations with Egypt and other Arab nations.

2. A move by Israeli diplomats to push the Arab nations further toward Russia, apparently with the idea that this tightens the bond between Washington and Jerusalem.

Push No. 1 is reported to be why Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was in Cairo last month. He took with him Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Semyonov, an expert on American Affairs, to help persuade President Nasser he should be in no hurry to resume diplomatic relations with President Nixon. Nixon had visited Cairo in 1963, had a friendly talk with Nasser, and it's reported Nasser leans toward patching up relations with the Nixon administration.

The Russians, however, don't want the United States to win back any influence in the Arab world. At present, and since the June 1967 war, we are without ambassadors in six Arab nations.

Meanwhile, in push No. 2, Israel has ordered its ambassador in Washington, the able Yitzhak Rabin, to try to sidetrack any resumption of American-Egyptian relations.

This is not a unanimous Israeli viewpoint, however. It is not shared by Gen. Moshe Dayan, who feels that Nixon might have a moderating influence on Nasser. Nevertheless, the general Israeli push to harden relations between the United States and Russia continues.

These are some of the complexities of the Near East imbroglio. It's extremely complicated and much too dangerous to allow to drift.

"Not Yet!"

Too-Bigness: Man Must Master, Not Bow to It

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The great challenges, the driving, unifying force of purpose which countless troubled, rebellious Americans seem to be groping for, will either be found within the bounds of this established, highly complex society—or they likely will not be found at all.

The domestic bomb-throwers are not going to blow this society off the earth. Even if they could, they would instantly learn that they would have to rebuild a structure very much like it—except that they would be a long time acquiring the necessary competence.

Obviously, there are many grave shortcomings in this present society and a long string of failures to go with its successes. One does not have to be under 30 to be both aware and concerned about these problems.

In this time of television, they are highly visible to most Americans and that helps to account for the acuteness of the responses we are witnessing and hearing almost daily.

Indeed, one of the most interesting aspects of the phenomenon is the common thread of discontent running through the U.S. spectrum from the radicals of the left to the major middle-ground parties and thence to the radicals of the right.

They are all, in one way or another, unhappy at the too-bigness of things in the America of 1969.

On the far right, many plead for release from the grasp of big government, big business and big labor and indicate they want to be left alone at the local level, basically to do nothing.

On the extreme left, the pleas are much the same, but with the wish to be left alone to change things nearly every day.

In the large areas between, the two parties who inhabit the zone are in surprising agreement—though often they conceal it in their effort to keep their separate political identities—that bigness has gotten out of hand and trends away from it must be put in motion.

Faith in sweeping programs has diminished as the record indicates begin and again the difficulty of making them work. Solutions like urban renewal, which sound so admirable on first notice, often seem to create more problems than they solve.

To see government at various levels pay huge sums for programs that do work is tough enough for some Americans to digest. To pay for gigantic failures is almost unbearable for many.

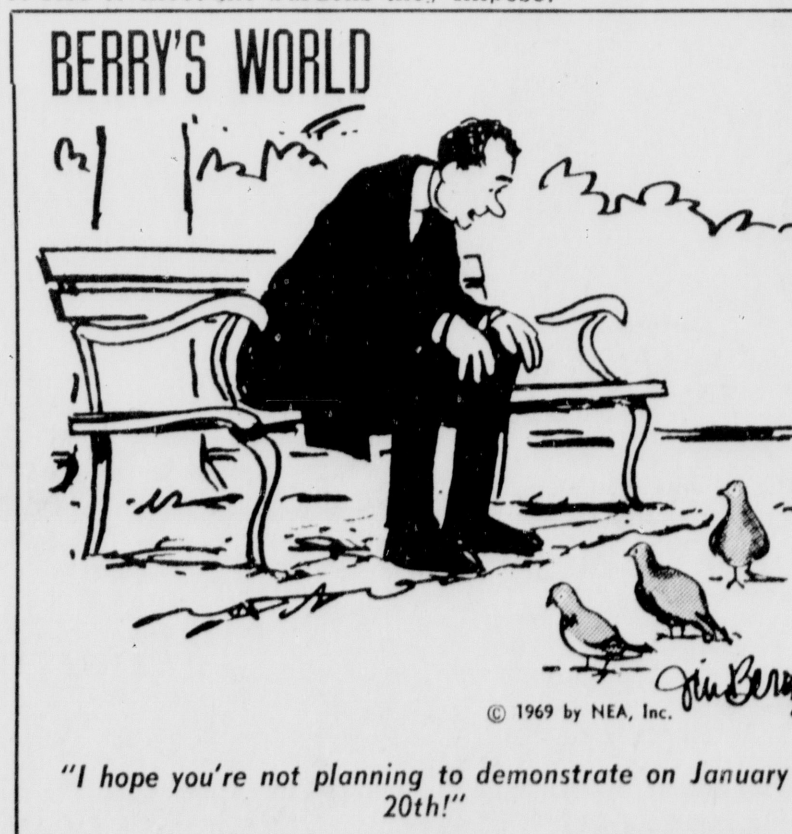

The challenges clearly do not lie in doing away altogether with a bigness which is an inescapable accompaniment of a country with 200 million people which soon will have 300 million.

The challenges must be found by inventing more effective and more economical and more human ways of getting at the problems which can be summed up under the heading "urban turmoil."

For instance, the public high schools and colleges today are torn by racial strife, among other things. Are there any places at all where this problem has been solved? If so, where and how? The successful approaches used carry a message the whole nation should know. Only human inventiveness at close range, founded in a real grasp of human motivations, can break the bigness down into workable areas of accommodation in living.

Multiply this one trouble area by the hundreds and thousands and you have the mosaic portrait of the nation. If anyone responds by saying it is just too much and we must sweep it all away, he is simply begging off. He is ducking the challenges which could give him purpose.

Unanswered still, of course, is the question of what men and institutions—in a time when family and school and church have all faltered—will lead Americans of all ages to see where the new tests are for them and inspire them to rise to meet the burdens they impose.

Thirty years ago when standard American bidding had taken on something like its current form there was a simple definition of an opening bid of three. It was made with a hand below opening bid strength but that would normally take six tricks if not vulnerable or seven tricks if vulnerable. This rule of two or three has a lot of common sense back of it. You don't mind being set provided you aren't penalized more than 500 points.

Some modern experts go a lot further with their pre-empt. When not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents they bid them with almost any sort of bad hand. Their reasoning is that the hand belongs to the other side and they want to make it as difficult as possible for opponents to reach their best contract.

We are willing to go a little distance in this direction. When not vulnerable against vulnerable we may open a five-trick hand with a three bid but we don't approve of opening pre-empt such as the one perpetrated by today's East.

We really consider this sort of bid a bridge crime but on this occasion crime paid.

South wanted to double three clubs for business but, unfortunately, he was playing a double primarily for take-out. He didn't want to pass and finally settled on three diamonds as his most satisfactory call.

At this point West came up with a brilliant bid. He didn't bother to show his good heart suit but tried four clubs.

No one can blame North for cue bidding five clubs. How could he suspect that his partner's principal strength was the ace-king-queen of this suit?

South could only sign off at five diamonds but North, not to be denied, went to six diamonds. No one doubted but that made little difference. Down one at six diamonds was bad enough.

BARBS

BETTY CANARY

Vulgarity Answer

"Where does the retailer's responsibility end," a friend asked me, "and where does a parent's responsibility begin?"

She was concerned about the window display of a men's clothing store where we were both customers. She had a small son in tow and he was just learning to read. The display had the usual shirts and coats and cuff links and scattered among these were items brought in for a bit of spice.

There were nightshirts with embroidered innuendos and bedroom "temperature" charts one is supposed to read with a smirk and there were also bar accessories printed with crude vulgarisms. Her son had read these aloud and some of the words he wanted his mother to explain.

She showed her displeasure in perhaps the best way. She bought the sweaters she wanted at another store. But, the gesture did not really solve her problem.

Personally, I see nothing funny about a roll of toilet tissue printed as money. And I regard such things as cocktail napkins printed with babies-in-wombs as not clever or humorous but disgusting.

However, I have no objection to a store selling these items if customers want to buy them. I do think it might be better if they kept the stuff out of the shirt department.

There is a novelty store in a new shopping center near us, a chain store that not too long ago only sold through mail order catalogs. Side by side with clever items, they display books and jokes that, in my opinion, should not be handled by small children out on a Saturday afternoon spree with their 50-cent allowances.

Censorship—the mere thought of it—gives me a shiver down the spine. And I believe that no responsible adult wants any committee passing judgment on stores. After all, when we walk up to a magazine rack, we can sometimes see only what we want to see. To one person a book can be a romantic romp while to another it presents a wallow between the sheets.

But what can a parent do to prevent children from being exposed to things which are not only in bad taste but are outright pornographic in nature? Should my friend keep her little boy in a box? Should she tie a blindfold on him until he is 16?

I think she had the best idea with her economic boycott. To make it more effective all she needs do is write a letter to the store manager explaining why she shopped elsewhere. She might ask if his sales of coasters printed with lewd mottoes totaled the $60 she was prepared to spend there.

DENTAL HEALTH

Chewing Habits Strengthen Teeth

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

In a recent talk to the dental staff of a large eastern medical center, Dr. H. H. Neumann, an investigator of the causes of dental decay, made the claim that the only constant factor he found among the many decay-free native tribes in the islands of the South Pacific and other parts of the world was "compression stress." These tribes, with little or no tooth decay, had in their diets foods that required chewing pressures of 50 to 100 pounds per square inch.

He believes that race, heredity, climate and mouth cleanliness have little or no influence on the incidence of dental decay. Also, overrated are nutrition, vitamins, proteins, calcium and milk. Some natives never see milk.

Dr. Neumann makes the point that teeth are highly insensitive to change in diet or to physiological conditions, such as pregnancy, or to general diseases. Many people in India die of malnutrition and yet have perfect teeth. Many people are born with or develop deficiency diseases and yet have perfect teeth. Many people live in fluoride-free areas of the world and have perfect teeth.

He hastens to add though that he is in favor of fluoridation of drinking water because it's an excellent public health measure for prevention of decay in our society.

What about carbohydrates, the oft-mentioned culprit? Many natives with perfect teeth live on diets loaded with highly concentrated sugars. The Bedouins chew dates and figs; many tribes in the Philippines chew sugar cane. They have perfect teeth.

Is it because only refined sugars cause decay? He said no — it has never been positively shown that only refined sugars trigger decay. Is it because the tough foods the natives eat act as detergents and cleanse teeth? Not so, he continued. Natives have dirty teeth.

The only positive correlation he could find among all peoples he and his research team studied was the "load factor."

Dr. Neumann calls this phenomenon "physiological resistance." "Work hardens," he says, and likens it to an oarsman whose hands become calloused and tough from constant use.

Dr. Neumann has started a pilot project with 5-year-olds. These kids are given tough, hard foods to chew during mid-morning snack at school; things like hard rolls, chick peas, sugar cane and St. John's bread.

Let's wait and see what happens.

DALLAS TIMES HERALD: Red Movies. — The Chinese Red Guards have banned 400 movies, 300 of them Chinese and the rest Soviet, British and French, according to Russia's Literary Gazette. Both Sir Laurence Olivier's "Hamlet" and a Soviet version of "Othello" were on the banned list.

The ghost of William Shakespeare shouldn't feel too badly. Another film on the proscribed list was a Chinese documentary on safety in swimming, which was banned because Chairman Mao doesn't want anyone hinting there's danger in his favorite sport.

Roadrunners Do It Again; Come Home With Victory

Slim Victory

David Bratcher, (42), State Fair Community Roadrunner center, drills the ball through a strong CMSC Mule defense for another two points at their Monday night game played at Warrensburg. The down-to-the-line contest saw the Roadrunners come out on top with a slim 51-50 victory.

The State Fair Community College Roadrunners did it again Monday night — they went against a tall wall of a ball club and came away with a thin one-point victory over Central Missouri State College's junior varsity in a game at Warrensburg.

The victory gave the Roadrunners a 7-1 mark for the season.

Taking to the road, SFCC took some hard knocks in the first half of action and trailed CMS 20-25 at the half-time buzzer.

The Roadrunners collected on only two of 11 tries at the free throw line in the first half of action, but made up for it with 48 percent of their field goal attempts going through during the game.

That and the hustle of the Roadrunners are becoming known for making the difference.

CMS' Tom Morgan, a 6-7, freshman center, gave the Roadrunners their toughest chore. Morgan hit the bucket for seven field goals and a free throw to spark his team with 15 points.

Top gun for the Roadrunners was David Bratcher, a 6-6 center who collected 13 points on three field goals and seven free throws.

Bratcher didn't start in the game, but Coach Fred Wehking put him into action when the going got a little tough and the Roadrunners came to life.

Ron Kiderlen, SFCC's sparky 5-10 forward, put his usual effort into the game and added a touch of control to boot. Hitting the back-forwards for three field goals and five free throws, he collected 11 points.

After being down 8-22 at one point in the first half, the SFCC squad put their press into action and started making up the deficit. The score saw-sawed throughout the second period of play and nothing was final until the last buzzer.

The Roadrunners went up against a tall and experienced team that promises to be tough in a rematch contest in February. In the meantime, SFCC has to prepare for the Nazarene Bible College Pioneers of Olathe, Kan., this Saturday. The Roadrunners will play Nazarene in a road game.

The first time the two teams met, SFCC clobbered the Pioneers 78-39 in Sedalia. It may be a slightly different story this time, with SFCC playing in foreign territory.

According to Coach Wehking, SFCC fans here would probably enjoy the game. "If nothing else, we're wild and woolly," he said. He can use his first season's record here so far to prove it.

Box Score:
SFCC 20 — 51
CMS 25 — 50
Individual scoring: Roadrunners — Duane Amos, 0-1-1; Greg Laird, 3-1-7; Gayland Lightfoot, 2-0-4; Dick Phillips, 5-1-1; David Bratcher, 3-7-13; Ron Kiderlen, 3-5-11; Jerry Wright, 2-0-4. CMS — Dave Brown, 2-1-5; Tom Morgan, 7-1-15; Sam Dowdy, 1-2-4; John Luscombe, 3-1-7; Walter Banks, 3-3-9; Pete Bynum, 3-0-6; Jim Dickey, 2-0-4.

'Hawks Drub Iowa State In 13th Victory of Season

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's 13 down and three to go for Kansas' streaking Jayhawks in their bid for a college basketball milestone.

Sparked by 6-foot-6 sophomore Dave Robisch's 22 points, the fifth-ranked Jayhawks drubbed Iowa State 94-61 Monday night for their 13th victory in 14 games this season.

Kansas, driving to become the first 1,000-game winner in history, has reeled off 12 victories in a row for an all-time total of 997.

While the Jayhawks, 2-0 in the Big Eight Conference, ran their winning string to the longest for a Kansas team since 1957, seventh-ranked Kentucky rattled Mississippi State 91-72, No. 9 Villanova shaded Niagara 73-68 and No. 10 New Mexico remained unbeaten with an 85-69 romp over Arizona State.

Notre Dame, ranked 16th in this week's Associated Press Top Twenty, zipped past Fordham 84-65 but No. 14 Louisville barely got by St. Louis 81-80 in a double overtime struggle.

Kansas, shooting 63 per cent from the floor, rolled to a 51-29 halftime lead over the visiting Cyclones at Lawrence, Kan., and coasted the rest of the way. Dave Nash, filling in for injured pivotman Roger Brown, complemented Robisch up front with 18 points and Olympic star Jo Jo White added 12.

Dan Issel popped in 26 points.

one more than teammate Mike Casey, in leading Kentucky to its second Southeastern Conference victory in as many starts and an 8-2 over-all mark. The Wildcats led from the opening minute and shot 56 per cent on the way to the road conquest.

Villanova's rugged zone defense limited Niagara hotshot Calvin Murphy to 26 points—12 under his season average—as the Wildcats ran their record to 9-1. Sophomore Howard Porter, with 23 points, and senior Johnny Jones, with 21, paced the Villanova attack on the losers' court.

Charlie Criss scored 25 points and Jimmy Collins 24, triggering New Mexico State's 12th victory. The Aggies, one of four unbeaten major teams, bolted to a 50-34 halftime margin and led by as many as 25 points in the second half.

Notre Dame, 8-2, ran off 10 straight points late in the second half—seven of them by 6-foot-7 reserve Collis Jones—and drew away from scrappy Fordham at South Bend, Ind. Bob Arzen topped the Irish scorers with 28 points.

St. Louis, which went up against visiting Louisville with a 2-8 mark, stunned the Cardinals by racing to a 44-30 halftime lead and stayed ahead until Mike Grosso put in a rebound with 17 seconds to play, sending the game into overtime knotted at 73.

The first overtime ended in a

77-77 deadlock and the Billikens jumped ahead 80-77 in the second extra period before Butch Beard hit a field goal for Louisville and teammate Jerry King followed with a rebound basket to win it with 1:10 remaining.

Grosso, held to two points in the first half, led the Louisville comeback with 22 after intermission.

Gene Smith tipped in a rebound in the final minute, capping a 20-point effort and giving Southern Illinois a 62-61 nod over Kentucky Wesleyan, the nation's No. 1 small college power. The one-point loss was the second in three nights for Wesleyan, which had won its first eight.

Monkey Wrench In Celebration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was supposed to be Bob Boozer's night, but Connie Dierking found a way to throw a monkey wrench into the celebration.

Dierking slammed in two baskets in the final 45 seconds Monday night to give the Cincinnati Royals a 106-104 National Basketball Association victory over Chicago at Omaha, Neb.

A crowd of 8,295 turned out to honor the Bulls' Boozer, a local product, and Bob responded with 25 points—including a free throw with 1:01 left that enabled Chicago to tie the game at 102-102.

But then Dierking started fouling up the festivities. Boston turned back Seattle 121-97 in the night's only other NBA game.

In the only two American Basketball Association games scheduled, lovely Houston surprised Kentucky 110-105 and Los Angeles stopped Denver 122-114 in overtime.

Don Nelson scored 28 points to guide Boston past Seattle, moving the Celtics to 3½ games of Eastern Division leader Baltimore and two game back of runner-up Philadelphia.

The Celts broke the game wide open late in the first half with a string of seven points that put them ahead 51-40. At halftime Boston was in front 54-47. The Celtics pulled away after intermission 66-53 on a 12-point tear.

Bob Rule kept the Super-Sonics in contention with 36 points.

Houston, buried in the ABA's Eastern Division cellar, rode a 30-point performance by Willie Somerset to victory over Kentucky, second in the Western race.

Somerset picked up 13 of his points in the final period to choke off a Colonels' threat. Teammate Art Becker had 22, while Darel Carrier led Kentucky with 24.

Time for Kansas State Team To Declare Itself

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas and Colorado have shown their credentials—loud and clear—and now it's up to Kansas State to declare itself in on the Big Eight basketball race for 1969.

The Jayhawks and Buffaloes both posted their second straight conference victories impressively Monday night.

Kansas rattled Iowa State, 94-61, at Lawrence while Colorado pulled off something of a coup in upending Oklahoma State, 78-68, at Stillwater.

Kansas State, which opened its league season with a victory at Iowa State, entertains Nebraska at Manhattan tonight.

Continue Lead In Cage Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvin Hayes, San Diego's sensational rookie, and a pair of veterans—Oscar Robertson and Wilt Chamberlain—continue to dominate the statistics at the mid-season point of the National Basketball Association campaign.

Hayes, the Rockets' 6-foot-9 center, has a commanding lead in the scoring race with 1,226 points and a 30.7 per game average through games of Sunday night. He also ranks third in rebounds with 711.

Chamberlain, of Los Angeles, has hit 305 of 519 shots from the field for the best percentage, 588, and also leads in rebounding 842, and rebounding average 20.5.

Robertson, Cincinnati's playmaker, leads in assists, 372 for a 9.8 per game average, is second in scoring, 1,034 points, and third in free throw percentage, .850.

Larry Siegfried of Boston leads in free throw percentage with 189 of 221 for .855.

The Wildcats can tie Kansas and Colorado for the early lead by winning.

In a third Big Eight game Monday night, Oklahoma surprised Missouri, 62-58, at Norman, Okla., taking the starch out of the head of steam the Tigers had built up in their pre-season schedule.

Kansas roared off to an 11-2 lead over Iowa State, then toyed with the Cyclones the rest of the way, even though Jayhawk regular center Roger Brown sat out the entire game with an ankle injury.

The Jayhawks, shooting 63 per cent from the field in the first half, grabbed a 51-29 lead at intermission and kept up the barrage. Kansas finished with a 53 per cent shooting night, while Iowa State could hit only 33 per cent in suffering its second straight Big Eight loss and seventh defeat in 13 games this year.

Kansas, now 13-1 for the season and the first Jayhawk team to win 12 in a row since 1957, got 22 points from Dave Robisch, 18 from Dave Nash, 12 from Jo Jo White and 10 from Greg Douglas. Bill Cain had 18 and Dave Collins for Iowa State, and Dave Collins 13 for Iowa State.

Colorado, now 12-2 for the season, shot 59 per cent from the field, but had to spurt away from a 61-61 tie to win. The Buffs outscored OSU 9-1 in the spurt, with Gordon Tope scoring seven of those points, to take a 70-62 lead.

Cliff Meely led Colorado with 31 points, while Tope added 17 and Mike Coleman 14. Joe Smith had 29 and Amos Thomas 18 for OSU.

Oklahoma hit two-thirds of its shots in the first half to build a 32-22 advantage over Missouri, then stood off the Tigers in the second half. Garfield Heard and Landy Watson each counted 20 for the Sooners. Don Tomlinson got 20 for Missouri. The victory broke a four-game Oklahoma losing streak.

Kansas State carries only a 5-7 season record into tonight's game with Nebraska. However, Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons contends the Wildcats could be 10-2 if they had hit their free throws.

"We are scoring at a 73.4 average and our opponents at 72.3," said Fitzsimmons, "so you can see what those missed free throws can do."

Establish His Interim Authority

CHICAGO (AP) — Gen. William D. Eckert established his interim authority as commissioner of baseball Monday at meeting of the game's Executive Council.

Eckert, who submitted his forced resignation Dec. 6 with four years remaining on a seven-year contract, said "I will have full responsibility and authority until a new commissioner is elected."

There was no discussion of candidates for the job at Monday's routine session but club owners tentatively have set a meeting Fe. 4 in Chicago to try to select a successor to Eckert at a reported $100,000 a year salary.

Eckert announced that the All-Star game slated for Washington, D.C., July 22 will be held at night. It marks the second successive year the classic will be played under lights.

College Cage Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. John's of New York, second to none as giant-killers of second place teams in The Associated Press major-college basketball poll, advanced from 17th place to eighth in the latest vote today while North Carolina regained the No. 2 position behind powerful UCLA.

The Redmen, winners over North Carolina two weeks ago when the Tar Heels were ranked second, upset Davidson, 75-74 last Saturday night. The result dropped the Wildcats from second to sixth place.

North Carolina, which tumbled to fourth after its setback to St. John's, collected 722 points in the balloting by a national panel of 50 sports writers and broadcasters. UCLA was again a unanimous choice for first place, accumulating the maximum 1,000.

The Bruins lifted their record to 9-0 by defeating St. John's in the New York Holiday Festival final last Monday and by beating Tulane Saturday night.

North Carolina whipped Princeton and Duke for a 9-1 mark. Santa Clara, unbeaten in 12 starts, advanced three places to third and Illinois, 10-0, climbed from eighth to fourth. Santa Clara beat Columbia, Oklahoma City and San Francisco while the Illini tripped Minnesota in its only game.

Kansas held fifth place. Kentucky fell four positions to seventh after splitting two games, including a 69-65 setback by Wisconsin. Villanova remained No. 9 and New Mexico State 11-0, rushed up from 12th to complete the Top Ten. Cincinnati, 10th a week ago, slipped to 19th as a result of its losses to Tulsa and Wichita State.

Northwestern, 9-1 after defeating Michigan State, made the most rapid advance among the teams in the Second Ten. The Wildcats soared from 19th to 12th.

Drake, in 18th place, and Marquette, 20th, are the newly rated teams. They replaced New Mexico, No. 18 last week, and St. Bonaventure, No. 20. New Mexico was beaten by Butler while the Bonnies dropped games to Oklahoma City and Villanova.

Southwest, CMSC In Slim Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Central Missouri and Southwest Missouri State clung tenaciously Monday night to their co-leadership in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball race.

Central edged Missouri — Rolla, 67-65, while Southwest ripped Southeast Missouri, 107-66, to leave both with 3-1 MIAA records. Rolla slumped to 0-3 and Southeast to 1-2.

In non-conference games, Tarkio rattled Dana, Neb., 103-53; Missouri Southern clipped John Brown University, 78-76; Lincoln University thwarted St. Benedict's of Kansas, 84-81, and Missouri-St. Louis got blitzed by Southern Illinois of Edwardsville, 103-58.

Only games scheduled for Missouri college teams tonight find Rockhurst at Southwest Baptist and Evangel at John Brown. Southwest Missouri is at Evansville, Ind., Wednesday.

A basket with two seconds left lifted Central Missouri past Rolla. The Mules never led until the final 55 seconds. Dennis Droege topped Central with 24 points, but scoring honors went to Rolla's Bob Hurt with 27.

Southwest raced to a 52-37 halftime margin and never let up in coasting past Southeast Missouri. Curt Perry notched 31 points and 20 rebounds to pace the winners, while Fred Anderson had 16 for Southeast.

Physician Helps Heal Grid Rift

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It will hardly appear in the journal of the American Medical Association, but a physician helped heal the bizarre rift between the president and the coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Dan Reeves, the president and owner of 51 per cent of the National Football League's stock, rehired George Allen, the winning coach he had fired the day after Christmas. Reeves said there was "personality conflict" between me and Allen.

Reeves explained at a news conference a few hours after Monday's rehiring announcement that he began to have second thoughts about his dismissal action of a week ago.

Dr. Jules Rasinski Jr. called him to say Allen had told him that he wanted to return as coach.

"I began to think about it," Reeves told newsmen. "If a man is this dedicated, I thought I should reconsider."

The team doctor called again the next day and the owner told him that he would be glad to meet with Allen.

They met for three hours on New Year's Day at the Reeves home and again last Saturday.

On Monday, Reeves announced that Allen's contract, which has two years left to run, remains the same with the same salary—reportedly $40,000 a year.

Firing of Allen shocked players and fans. Several veteran stars of the team threatened to retire or ask to be traded if the coach didn't return.

Reeves denied that the threat of the small rebellion by players or mounting pressure from fans and news media influenced his decision.

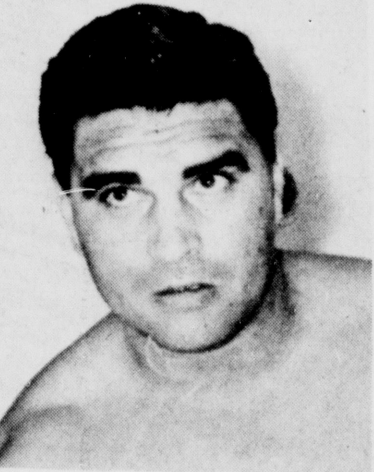

"The reasons I had were valid and sufficient in my mind," Reeves said of the firing. He refused to elaborate. But later he said there was a difference of philosophy between himself and Allen.

"The man works 14 hours a day on football, and it is hard for someone on the outside—I mean someone not technically involved in football—to get through to George."

The owner and coach said they had agreed to forget the past difficulties and strive for closer association in the future.

Allen, who remained at the news conference only a few minutes, said he was "very happy to be returning as Dan's coach . . ."

Benefit Wrestling Show Is Scheduled Tonight

Joe Smith

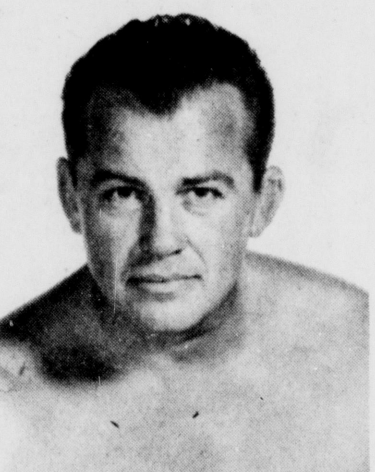

The annual wrestling show for the benefit of crippled children is scheduled in Sedalia tonight when American Legion Post No. 16 sponsors a four-event program at Convention Hall.

Matches featuring both heavyweights and midjets will get under way at 8:15.

Matchmaker Gust Karras has assembled several of the area's top wrestling stars for the benefit card.

Earl Maynard, the quick-fisted and fleet-footed West Indian who holds an impressive list of conquests will match his speed and well-muscled frame against the power offensive of Tornado Murdock in the main event.

They are scheduled over the best of three falls with a 60-minute limit.

Ronnie Etchison

Maynard is one of the dominant wrestling figures on the Midlands scene and is pointing his cap towards shots at both the Central States and world titles. A decision over the rugged Tulsan would advance his cause.

Booked for the semifinal are Ronnie Etchison and Joe Smith. The latter will be making his Sedalia bow against a veteran ring workman who never fails to set a brisk, and gruelling, pace.

Terry Martin, talented 18-year old from Minot, N.D., is expected to have his hands full when he goes against Dusty Rhodes, a husky Texan whose offense is geared to power measures.

Scheduled in the opener are midjets Mighty Atom and Cowboy Lang.

Makes Tablecloths From Dance Skirts

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Do you hate to throw away those old square dance skirts? I cut the waistbands off two lovely full circle skirts and I have two round tablecloths. I tapered and stitched the opening so the skirt lays flat. I opened the band, filled in the opening and it turned out beautifully. Make yourself a square dance tablecloth and bring back those old memories.—ADELE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Will someone please tell me if there is a way to waterproof a cloth raincoat after it has been machine-washed?—NOLA

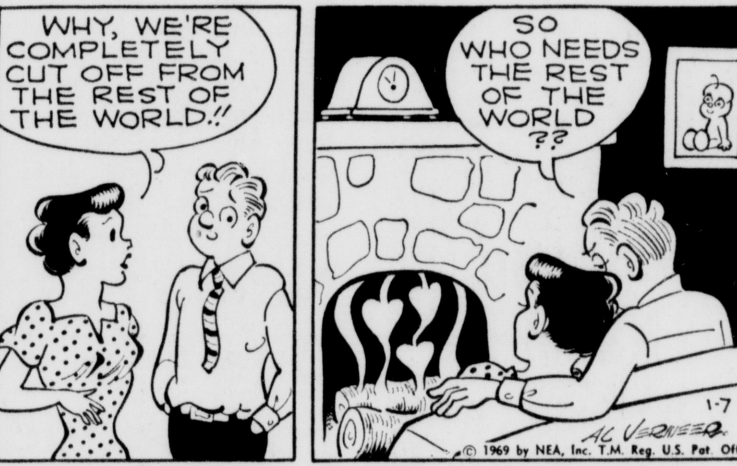

DEAR POLLY—Molly does not have to remove completely the dark varnish in her kitchen that she wants to paint with enamel. Only in refinishing—restaining, varnishing or bleaching—is it necessary to remove it completely. Before painting with the enamel she simply sands lightly with sandpaper or uses a liquid sandpaper one gets at the paint store. Both these means will create a proper surface condition or proper adhesion.—DAN

DEAR POLLY—My grandchildren live many miles away. I only see them twice a year. I make a lot of clothes for them and there was always the problem of getting a good fit until I devised the following method. Unroll some sheets of brown wrapping paper or even tape together sheets of white shelf paper. While the children are in shorts or underwear let them lie down on the paper and draw around them completely, carefully marking the wrists, knees and shoulders. Also write on it the waist size, shoe size, wrist size and any other information that you might want when selecting a size for a pattern. Right now I am using this pattern as I finish a coat. I do not have to guess at the sleeve or hem length. When I am finished, I roll up the paper, put a rubber band around it and store until it is again needed.—ALMA (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Murray Olderman Analyzes the Jets:

Never Has One Man Meant More

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Association

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Not since the righteous right arm of Norm Van Brocklin singly propelled the Philadelphia Eagles to a world professional football championship in 1960 has an artist of such dynamic thrust as Joe Namath meant so much to his team.

You say John Unitas? The Baltimore Colts, as a footnote to history, have not won any championships since 1959. Besides, they always had magnificent defense, and still do, as an adjunct to the skills of Johnny U., and they didn't even need Unitas to win this year.

But the New York Jets, riding the targetry of Namath to the Super Bowl in Miami are not a complete team—just as the Eagles weren't in 1960.

These Jets have an erratic running attack. Their defense is soft in the secondary and features a scrambling scrappiness, not the cohesive, sealing protection you usually expect in a winner.

The Jets have Namath. Slick, gutty, spectacular Joe Willie. A great arm, an intuitive flair for the big play, and even the fallibility of execution that produces up-and-down swells in his performance and makes for great suspenseful theater every time he plays.

Joe Namath is the story of the Super Bowl this year, because any chances the Jets have of winning are as securely wrapped around him as those tight layers of bandage on his hobbling knees. Just as Joe was the story of the Jets getting to Miami.

He got them there on one play that was the microcosm of their 1968 season.

The play is called "9-option" and it was called by Namath in the huddle with the ball on the Oakland Raider six-yard line, seven minutes and 54 seconds left on the clock in the fourth period of the AFL Championship Game, the Jets down by three points.

Joe had used up just 24 seconds, including the kickoff return, to get them there—a quick slant-type pass to split end George Sauer, a 52-yard over-the-shoulder heave to flanker Don Maynard.

Now on "9-option" he faked a handoff to fullback Matt Snell and rolled out to his left on skittery knees. The whole flow of the play was to the left. Halfback Bill Mathis, the primary receiver, cut diagonally left across the line. Sauer, lined up tight on the left side, took a step and cut out to the deep corner of the end zone. He was the secondary target.

Hounded by a couple of Raiders, Namath couldn't find a passing lane to either receiver. He couldn't run it himself under the pressure. And he couldn't find tight end Pete Lammons, his third possible target.

So Joe wheeled and threw the ball in one motion. Low, hard and off-balance to the other side of the field, the toughest pass in the world. And flanker Maynard, who in Namath's words, "had been fooling around just to keep himself busy" on the right side of the field, cradled the ball for the winning touchdown which put the Jets in the Super Bowl.

It was pure Namath improvisation and a perfect example of individuality which makes both him and the Jets an exciting team.

"From that position," said Mark Duncan, pro football's overseer of officials and an ex-coach, "only one quarterback out of five could have put enough on the ball to get it to the receiver." And only one quarterback in five would have the acuity to discard one receiver after another in split-second decision and come up with a far-out fourth choice as the winner.

His contribution pervades every facet of the team. Veteran Linebacker Larry Grantham, the original Jet, signed back in 1960, admits the function of his defensive unit is simply to keep the other team from hitting with the big bomb—"We don't win on defense."

"You feel," explains Larry, "when you got a guy like Joe on your ball club, you know he's going to get points for you. You see the guy getting hit and still coming up with those points. That gives you more inspiration than anything else you can have on a football team."

Inspiration alone might not be enough against a Baltimore Colt team with fine balance and a tremendous defense that provides its own motivation. But it isolates Joe Namath as the most exciting element of the third Super Bowl game.

Smiles Follow Meeting

Big smiles are worn by all following a closed door meeting of baseball's executive council in Chicago Monday. Seated, left to right, are Warren Giles, NL president; William Eckert, commissioner; Joe Cronin, AL president; and standing, left to right, Gabe Paul, Cleveland Indians; Walter O'Malley, Los Angeles Dodgers; Eckert said he will continue in his post with full authority and responsibility until a new commissioner is named. He is quitting as commissioner and there is speculation that a new commissioner might be named at the meeting, which apparently considered only routine affairs. (UPI)

MVC Crown Resting On Louisville

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The crown may be resting uneasily, but it remains on the University of Louisville's head in the Missouri Valley Conference.

If the Cardinals keep winning the close ones, the rest of the MVC may find it difficult to keep Louisville from capturing its third conference championship in a row.

Louisville sneaked past St. Louis University, 81-80, in two overtimes Monday night at St. Louis, running the Cardinals' MVC record to 4-1 and their season mark to 10-1.

The Cardinals had to come from behind to clip the Billikens now 1-2 in the Valley and 2-2 overall.

Louisville trailed all the way until gaining a 73-73 tie with 17 seconds left in regulation time on Mike Grosso's basket. The Cards then grabbed a 77-73 lead in the first overtime before St. Louis tied on a bucket by Fritz Ziegler and two free throws by Ed Tabash.

In the second extra session, St. Louis took a 80-77 lead, but Louisville pulled it out with baskets by Butch Beard and Jerry King, the latter with 1:30 left. Grosso topped Louisville with 24 points and King added 18. Joe Wiley tallied 24 and Ziegler 20 for St. Louis.

Bradley (1-1), plays at Memphis State (0-3) tonight, with the Braves needing a victory to stay in the thick of the MVC race.

Namath's Observations Begin Superbowl Feud

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Joe Namath wasn't in town 24 hours before he started the Super Bowl's first feud.

Namath, the super quarterback of the American Football League champion New York Jets, said on a television program that there were at least four better passers in the AFL than Baltimore's Earl Morrall. Namath listed Oakland's Daryle LaMonica, John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers, Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins, and himself as better than Morrall, the National Football League's Player-of-the-year.

And, to add insult to injury, Namath said his backup quarterback with the Jets, Babe Parilli, could have played with Baltimore this year, and might have done a better job than Morrall. He said Parilli throws better.

Namath said he didn't give a hang if his observations stimulated Baltimore in Sunday's Super Bowl battle with the Jets for the professional football championship of the world.

Coach Don Shula of the Colts heard about Namath's comments and replied, "I don't know how Namath can rap Earl, the NFL's Player-of-the-year. He had a great completion percentage, led the league in touchdown passes, threw for huge chunks of yardage. He didn't throw those dinky flat passes, either."

"He (Namath) can say what the heck he wants, but I don't know how he can rap a guy like Earl who has accomplished what Morrall has accomplished for us this year. We're happy with Earl."

Shula wasn't deterred from praising Namath as one of the top quarterbacks in the game. "He's a heck of a thrower," said the Baltimore coach. "He moves their offense. He has that quick release. The thing he does as well as anybody is set up with good depth. He back-edals well, doesn't get caught often with the football. He has what we call fast feet, in that he can adjust quickly, move from side to side, get out of the rushing lanes."

Shula added that probably most important, Namath has a strong, accurate arm. Asked how he felt about his team being an 18-point favorite.

Shula said he paid no attention to such things.

"We were favored to beat the Browns in 1964 for the championship and lost," he noted.

"We also were favored to beat the Browns this year during the regular season and didn't win. We've also played a lot where we were favored and won."

"I'd hate to think we were over confident," Shula said. "After all, we must realize that everything we've accomplished all year hinges on what we accomplish Sunday."

More Campus Controls Are Sought By Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, offering California his 1969 program, called on the state legislature today to strike hard against campus turmoil by increasing penalties for students, nonstudents and faculty involved in disturbances.

The Republican governor, in his annual "State of the State" message, also offered "a substantial personal income tax reduction." He didn't specify who would get it, but previously he had promised it to middle-income families hit hardest by his 1967 billion-dollar tax increase.

Pledging another year of economy, Reagan said, "Under no circumstances will I support or sign into law any tax increase."

And, he asked for new pornography controls and new weapons in the war against crime, including giving police authority to use electronic listening devices when a judge approves. The speech was prepared for a joint session of the legislature.

Republicans now hold narrow majorities in the Senate and Assembly, where Democrat had majorities in the first two years of Reagan's administration.

Many of his plans for the third year of his term were spelled out in general terms, but Reagan got more specific when he talked about the issue of unrest on California's public college campuses.

"Such proposals would, among other things, increase the legal penalties for assaults on teachers and students, provide for the expulsion of students or the dismissal of teachers who interfere with the educational process and strengthen the trespass laws to keep trouble makers off the campus," he said.

When Michigan State upset Notre Dame this fall it marked the 10th victory in 14 games for a Duffy Daugherty-coached team against the Fighting Irish. The 1966 game ended in a memorable 10-10 tie.

NCAA Announces All-Star Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Monday announced plans for an all-star college basketball game at Springfield, Mo., April 5.

The proceeds will go to the Heart Fund and the game will be known as the Eddie Mathews Memorial Heart Fund Game, sponsored by the Green County Heart Association.

Seniors at state colleges and universities will participate in the game.

When the Detroit Tigers won the 1945 World Series from the Chicago Cubs, center fielder Doc Cramer led the Tiger hitters with 379 on 11 hits in 29 trips to the plate.

A Month of Good News

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer

On Christmas Eve in the year 1968 there was a strange object in the skies and three brave men were making a new kind of history by undertaking the most daring and risky space adventure ever.

They were Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders—the crew of Apollo 8—orbiting the moon as the highlight of a fantastic six-day journey.

The astronauts left the earth's sphere of gravitational influence to become the first humans ever to enter the moon's gravity field. After 10 lunar orbits they headed in their spacecraft back earthward to a safe on-target splashdown in the Pacific Dec. 27 and to a heroes' welcome.

There was more good news for the United States in December. The 82 surviving crew members of the Pueblo were back in their own country for Christmas after being released by the North Koreans who had seized them and their intelligence ship off the North Korean Coast exactly 10 months before.

To obtain freedom for the prisoners, the U.S. government signed a document—which it immediately termed false—of "solemn apology" to the North Koreans, who kept the vessel.

Also holding holiday reunions with their families were 11 American soldiers freed after five months as Cambodian prisoners. They were captured last July when their river boat allegedly strayed into Cambodian waters from South Vietnam.

Earlier in the month, as the season of good will toward men approached, expanded Vietnam peace talks were getting off to a slow start in Paris after Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam arrived, leading a delegation pledged to peace without surrender.

Pre-negotiation diplomatic maneuvers hit an immediate snag in a high-level hassle over the shape of the conference table. The Communists insisted it should be round to indicate equal status of the four delegations—the United States, Saigon, Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Saigon and Washington, on the other hand, saw it as a two-sided confrontation between the allies and the Communists, and their proposal for the talks' setting was a two-sided arrangement to avoid recognizing the NLF as a separate entity.

Hong Kong flu, a new variant of the influenza virus, made its way across the Pacific and by mid-December the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta reported the nation was at the beginning of an epidemic, with the peak expected about mid-January.

Its effects were widespread. Many schools and colleges were closed well in advance of the Christmas holidays and absenteeism in business and industry was high. Among its victims was actress Tallulah Bankhead, who died at 65 of pneumonia that developed after an attack of the Hong Kong flu.

A 20-year-old Emory University coed and daughter of a wealthy Florida land developer was the victim of a bizarre kidnapping in Atlanta. Barbara Jane Mackle was taken from a motel where she was ill with flu. She was imprisoned for more than 80 hours in a box buried 18 inches under the red clay of a wooded area outside Atlanta before being found by FBI agents.

Gary Steven Krist, 23, was arrested in connection with the kidnapping and his bond set at $500,000, the same amount as the ransom paid by Miss Mackle's parents, but mostly recovered.

In an unprecedented introduction of his new Cabinet en masse, President-elect Richard M. Nixon presented the 12 leaders of the incoming administration to a nationwide television and radio audience Dec. 11.

None of his choices for official family, all men considered moderates in political thought, came as a great surprise. There were no Democrats in the group, no Negroes, no Jews and no women.

Later in the month Nixon acquired a new member of his private family when his daughter Julie and David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, were married at Marble Collegiate Church in New York City.

NAACP Plans Its Banquet For Jan. 14

The Pettis County branch of the National Association For the Advancement of Colored People will hold its annual banquet at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 14, at the St. Patrick's Church cafeteria.

Jack MacBride, Fulton, director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps for Central Missouri, will be the principal speaker. He is also president of the Fulton branch of the NAACP.

MacBride has been active in equal employment opportunity work. He was recently appointed by Gov. Warren Hearnes to the White House Committee Conference on Children and Youth.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — In Sunday's early fog, Sandra Windell sheared off a utility pole with her car. A six-foot leg of pole was inside the car when Mrs. Windell arrived home. She wasn't hurt.

Merchant Marine Nominees Named

Emanuel M. Tornquist III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel M. Tornquist, Jr., 2514 Southwest Boulevard, has been nominated by Rep. William J. Randall for the Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, N.Y.

Also nominated from this area was Donald J. Fairfax, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Fairfax, LaMonte.

Nomination entitles the nominees to compete on a state-wide basis for the available vacancies. Acceptance by the academy is finally dependent upon the results of mental and physical examinations.

Tips By Computer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The seven Anne Arundel County councilmen received salary checks turned out by the computer for $2,100.02—two cents more than the councilmen's salary.

"I'll make full restitution," promised Chairman John M. Whitmore, "in six equal installments."
